Field and office assignments will include tailings dam inspection, collection of geotechnical data (including piezometer, settlement plates, and slope inclinometers), construction survey layout and as-built pick-up, construction project estimating, scheduling, coordination, and quality control inspection, administration, and reporting, as well as other duties as required. Field work may occur in all weather conditions.

Key Responsibilities

- Strong commitment and adherence to all Health & Safety Policies and Procedures.
- Demonstrate enthusiasm and willingness to learn cross-functional department areas.
- Work with a variety of industry professionals across construction and technical disciplines.
- Conduct tailings dam inspections with the Tailings Dam Technician or Engineer.
- Conduct regular piezometer, settlement plate, slope inclinometer, water level readings, and other survey and GPS field work readings, inputting and administering data, and reporting.
- Conduct construction survey layout and as-built survey data collection.
- Assist in construction project estimating, scheduling, coordination, and quality control.
- Assist in department administration and reporting as required.

Qualifications

- Valid driver's License
- Must be currently enrolled in an engineering program at a recognized Canadian University. Civil, Mining, or Mechanical programs are preferred but are not required for consideration.
- Strong written and verbal communication skills.
- Strong ability to self-motivate and self-learn.
- Strong computer-based skills (Microsoft suite and others).
- Able to change and re-prioritize tasks as new information is gathered.
- Able to work independently or collaborate within groups.
- Experience in construction environments including heavy civil earthworks or mining industrial sites is considered an asset but is not required for consideration.

Why New Gold?

- Highly competitive base salary
- Gain TMA, Instrumentation and Construction experience

We thank all applicants for their interest but will only contact candidates selected to advance in the hiring process.
